Douglas Gill declares that the following article numbers (printed inside the sunglass arms) are in conformity with the national standard transposing the harmonized standard ISO 12312-1:2013/A1:2015. They are compliant with the Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) directive EU 2016/245.

We meet all the requirement of this standard such as impact resistance, cosmetic quality, suitability for driving and robustness as well as Optical aspects such as transmittance and refractive properties and UV protection.

The compliance of the above requirements is consequently verified with random inhouse examination at factories prior shipment.

The producing factories are ISO9001:2000 and ISO14001 accredited which means that our inspection procedures, data records and quality control procedure have been approved and are controlled yearly by independent auditors.

We can confirm that all conformity documents and test reports will be kept on file for 10 years and available upon request.
